

Earthquake Surveillance Division Meteorological Department

Digital Ministry for Economy and Society

The rumor of the tsunami in the Andaman Sea That will affect the south west coast

According to rumors of a tsunami in the Andaman Sea That will affect the south west coast According to social media That occurred from the earthquake In the Andaman Sea, size 5.0 and 5.2, on Saturday, March 23, 2019, 18.29 hrs. And 18.34 hrs respectively, causing people to be confused and alarmed by such news

The Meteorological Department would like to clarify that The above news has errors from facts. According to academic principles, opportunity Will cause a tsunami in that area Must have an earthquake of no less than 7.5 and must move Body of vertical sliders From this incident, there is no chance of a tsunami. By the present department meteorology Has developed various measurement systems to monitor earthquakes In this area for 24 consecutive HR that is accurate Fast and accurate. Moreover, the government sector has integrated and managed more systematically. You can follow the news from the Meteorological Department in various channels as follows.

1. Hotline 1182 and phone number 0 2399 4547 24 hours a day
2. Meteorological Department website <http://www.earthquake.tmd.go.th> and <http://www.tmd.go.th>
3. Facebook and Twitter of the Earthquake Surveillance Division: EarthquakeTmd

Earthquake Surveillance Division Meteorological Department

March 24, 2019 at 15.00 hrs.